

Amy E. Moreno, M.Ed.

Amy is co-founder of iConnections Consulting, LLC and the Director of Inclusive Culture for the College of Engineering and Applied Science at the University of Colorado (CU) Boulder. Amy is a thought leader and strategist working to positively impact organizational culture, social climate, and educational and working environments.

Amy's educational background include degrees in Animal Science, Cultural Anthropology and Educational Leadership and Policy Studies. Amy is currently pursuing a graduate leadership and management certificate in the Engineering Management Program at CU Boulder. Amy is licensed as a Qualified Administrator of the Intercultural Development Inventory (IDI) and holds certifications in Crucial Conversations, Real Colors (National Curriculum and Training Institute), and Everything DiSC personality assessment for managers and leaders. Amy was also a member of the 2019 cohort of the National Inclusive Excellence Leadership Academy.

Amy received the award for outstanding commitment to College Personnel Association of Colorado's professional growth, and is a recipient of a 2020 University of Colorado system-wide President's Diversity award.

Amy has held various professional positions in higher education such as the Learning Community Coordinator for the Program for Women in Science and Engineering (receiving an outstanding innovation award), Residence Hall Director (inducted into the National Residence Hall Honorary), and within Human Resources as a Diversity and Inclusion Education Program Manager and a Senior Training and Development Specialist.

Email: Moreno.Amy@gmail.com